

Multiverse

Written By James Chan

I spend way too much time thinking about nothing in particular

That's why I wrote this;

To work it out,
get it straight;
Fuck it up

Make the correct mistakes;
Murder grammar when necessary
And punctuate in all the wrong places

Ramble incoherent thought process and pretzel logic into the atmosphere Across a thousand shining satellites to find your eyes looking at my silly words

Searching for some sort of distant connection to fill the vague space that separates all the particles of our Universe and gives us cause to smile